

To what extent should the mining in Odisha be allowed to go ahead?

Use words from this list.

Use the levelling criteria to help you:

D

- I can describe the effects of conflict on people and nature, and what causes it (why) in some detail.
- I can describe how conflict changes the lives of different people
- I can refer to real examples
- I can use some Geography words correctly

C

- I can begin to talk about the effects of conflict as long term and short term
- I can show that I am talking about particular places and events
- I can say how different causes and effects are linked
- I can begin to say how people have tried to manage conflict over resources
- I can offer a conclusion
- I can use lots of Geography words correctly

B

- I can link different issues and show how one problem can lead to other problems
- I have started to think about why certain effects took place
- I can explain how people have tried to manage conflict across the country
- I have started to consider different view points
- I have offered conclusions based on case studies (places) I have studied
- I have an excellent use of Geography vocabulary

A

- I can describe the links between human and physical processes and can see how they change places
- I can see how actions in one place can have an impact elsewhere
- I can see how conflict can arise from different needs and pressures
- I can show an understanding of issues to do with sustainable planning and management
- I can present and explain different view points
- I can use accurate examples and reach sound conclusions

A***

- I can show that I understand the political and economic background of conflict
- I can show that I understand the long term issues that have an impact on society, the economy and the environment, both within countries and on other nations
- I have considered how countries could have better policies to support nations in conflict